Prison Management.

He Would Merge Boards of Corrections and Control.

MAJOR BROWN IS ROPED IN

in the Capital City.

If he has anything to do with the affairs of the 1917 legislature, Gov-ernor Capper will urge that all prison management in the state be placed under the board of control. The 1915 legislature defeated a bill which had for its purpose the merging of the board of corrections with the control

At present the board of corrections has supervision over the state peniten-tiary at Lansing, the state reformatory at Hutchinson, the girls' industrial school at Beloit and the boys' indusschool at Beloit and the boys industrial school at Topeka. The governor believes one board can manage the affairs of both the penal institutions and the big state charities and hat the two bodies should be consolidated. In the recent legislative session, a bill was introduced which tended to combine the work of the two boards and would abolish the board of car-and would abolish the board of cor tions. It was charged that the bill s offered in an effort to separate E. Brooks and Stance Myers from ur jobs on the control board. Finally an amendment was attached no changes should be made in the per-sonnel of the board of control during the term for which the individual members had been appointed and con-firmed. Even then the bill didn't look just right to the Democratic senate and it died in the upper house hopper.

One on Major Brown.

"I have always the ight that Major Brown had something to do with the defeat of the bill," said the gover or.

"Brown seemed to feel that there was a chance for his reappointment to a place on the board of corrections and felt that the passage of the bill would I slate him out of a job."

Regardless of any action which Brown may or may n have taken, the result was the same. The bill was never passed. It was urged that the work of prison management and the management of the big charities required the selection of men of different temperament and that one board could not successfully handle the two departments. departments.

"I believe the state will yet enact a law consolidating the two boards and am strongly in favor of the passage of such a law," the gow mor stated in a discussion of his views concerning board consolidation. "If I have anything to do with the next legistive session, I will surely recommend that the two boards be merged."

It is the governor's plan to handle the entire work with a board of three members. He will provide for the lo-cation of permanent offices in Topeka and would require that every member of the board give his entire time to the

The Italian war office claims fresh successes. Serbian artillery is holding up the Austro-German advance. Dis-patches from Athens today said that Bulgaria, three days ago ready to leap to war, with the Austro-Germans, is hesitating.

The newspapers called for modera-tion on the part of the wildly enthusiastic British public today. They pointed out that the allies must have suffered heavily in the furious smashes toward Lens and in the Champagne and that today's official communication may bring news of serious reverses. They stated that the sudden offensive movement launched Saturday may mean a "feeling out" of the German position preliminary to a real offensive and that the present at-tacks may cease before night.

Dispatches from Paris and from Dutch points today stated that the Chicago 232 252 000 15.4 great battle from Arras northward to the sea and in the Champagne raged without interruption throughout Sunday night and is continuing today. Military writers point out that the Russians are now holding the Austrians and Germans on a front of 700 miles, while the presence of nearly two million strongly entrenched Germans shas failed to prevent an advance in France. This, they say, must increase the perplexities of the German general staff and react immediately on any plans which have been formed for new attacks in the south or southeast.

Naples, Sept. 27.—The commander and officers of the Faber line steamer, Sant' Anna, which has arrived here from New York after having put in at the Azore islands, with fire in her cargo, declare that they have gathered indisputable evidence that the fire was started by German passengers, who gave false names when they boarded the vessel.

Three of these passengers, the officers asserted, have been arrested, while two others threw themselves overboard and disappeared.

Parisians received news of the victory soberly. The newspapers issued unusually large editions, and official bulletins were read from the stages of the theaters last night, the orchestras playing the "Marseillaise."

London contained no mention of the naval incident nor of the capture of more than 5,000 French and British in the land fighting reported by wireless today, the censor evidently having eliminated the parts of the statement fererring to the statements.

Slavs More Than Held Own. On the eastern front, the Russians losses have been given out here, but it is known that they are enormous. To offset these losses the allied onseem to be holding their own at most points and doing even better in some sectors. Their resistance around Dvinsk is apparently stronger while they are desperately battling with the Germans near Vileika and Smorgon. Petrograd reports new successes east of Novo Grodek and to the north of Pinsk with the taking of several hundred prisoners.

To offset these losses the allied onslaught bent the German line in only two sectors.

Dispatches from Sofia indicate that Bulgarian diplomats are eager to convince the allies that mobilization of the army was not prompted by hostile motives.

The latest official news from Petrograd is interpreted here as showing that the Russians are distinctly in a better position. This seems to be true even in the region of Dvinsk, where Field Marshal von Hindenburg has concentrated his efforts, perhaps at the expense of the southern front. The German attack now seems to be slackening.

Notwithstanding the successes of the allies, England is not blinded to attempt to push the Germans from positions honey-combed with trenches. Now that the allies have passed to the offensive they have before them a problem, the serious nature of which

HAS THE HOUR COME?

People See Long Expected Offensive;
War Lords Silent.

Paris, Sept. 27.—"Is it the great offensive at last?" is the question that is being asked all over France. Sunday's official communications aroused the liveliest satisfaction and were the subject of animated discussion. The continued bombardment of the past month in the northern and Champagne sections of the battle line was generally believed to be the prelude to some important move, and the public has been quick to infer that the patiently awaited hour for a strong offensive has arrived at last.

The military observers, however, are more cautious than the public. They admit that the operations carried out by the British and French were brilliant, and declare that if 20,000 prisoners were taken the total German losses must have been at least 50,000 or 60,000 men. But they hesitate to declare on the scant facts available that this is the beginning of a big offensive maneuver.
